

Celtic Samhain: A Halloween conversion of Celtic Autumn

I've broken my notes up into parts of the chart because I changed colors in the dress for symbols used in the border and lettering that I changed to other colors in those areas. Clear as mud, right?

The letters are based on the letters from Autumn and the other celtic charts. I used the letter "I" as the base for H. I added the outstretched hand from the Celtic Winter chart. The hat I sort of roughly drafted out on graph paper and then tweaked as I stitched it, so forgive the roughness of the chart. I recommend playing around with the shape to get the hate as you want it. I did the hair and face under the hat as charted just skipping the parts the hat covered.

All threads in her face and hair are as the original pattern has them.

Beads: I used a no-name brand bead that didn't have color names on them, but I have kept them pretty much as close to the colors as in the Celtic Autumn except I am using a copper color bead in place of the mocha one.

Dress

Original Color	New Color (DMC brand)
2001	742
2002	741
2003	971
2004	970
2005	740
2006	608
ecru	413
644	310

822	3799
B5200	317
829	550
830	327
831	3740
832	3041
833	3042
834	3743

I switched the gold metallic PB01 in the orange part of her skirt to DMC E310, but any black metallic thread would work. The rest I subbed out PB01 with Kreinik 202HL.

Symbols in the large border motifs down the side

924 c = 502

926 filled in star =504

3768 circle with half filled in =503

2006 filled in triangle=550

2004 S = 3740

830 H =740

832 X= 741

356 * = 402

2003 O = 971 In most of the motifs. In the left hand border the fourth design down (I'm counting the first letter as a second design in the left border) I changed it to 310 just because I wanted to tie the black shawl into the border. You can do it in the 971 or the black depending on your preference.

I hope you enjoy stitching her as much as I did!
